

WEBSTER FIVE FOUNDATION DONATES $2,500 TO THE PREGNANT AND PARENTING TEEN PROGRAM.

WEBSTER, MA – June 10, 2010 – The Webster Five Foundation, a charitable organization founded by Webster Five Cents Savings Bank, announced today that it will donate $2,500 to the Pregnant and Teen Parenting Program. The funds will help provide comprehensive services to teen mothers and their babies in need.

The Pregnant and Parenting Teen Program (PPT Program) was initially developed in 1985 in response to the growing number of teen pregnancies in South Worcester County. Originally designed as a program to help mothers complete their education, the program has now grown into a comprehensive program providing support to both teen mothers and fathers in all areas of pregnancy and parenthood, as well as access to teen pregnancy prevention services.

The PPT Program offers services starting at pregnancy in order to ensure teens receive adequate care, babies are of proper birth weight, and teens are prepared for the parenting role. Services continue through parenthood to ensure that daycare is provided for mothers in school and that teens have access to further knowledge about infant care. Part of the PPT Program's mission not only is to help provide teen mothers and their babies with the support they need to build healthy lives, but also to help prevent future teen pregnancies.

Richard T. Leahy, President and Chief Executive Officer of Webster Five Cents Savings Bank, commented, "We are pleased to donate to a program that addresses such an important issue for young women today."

"We are delighted to have the support of The Webster Five Foundation," said Deborah Dee, Director of the PPT Program. "This donation will help our young parents, while allowing us to continue our program goals and guide young mothers in the right direction."
